Terms and Conditions for Subscriptions and Delivery

- The subscription contract concerning delivery, purchase and payment is made legal and binding for both parties with the confirmation of the subscription by Netcoo Publishing International Limited or the first delivery of Netcoo Magazine.
- The subscription fee is generally payable in advance. The price paid in advance is guaranteed for the period of the subscription and cannot be increased. Price increases will be announced at least 8 weeks before becoming effective and will be published through Netcoo Magazine, the Netcoo website as well as by e-mail to all newsletter subscribers.
- Notice of cancellation must be given in writing to Netcoo Publishing International Limited at least 6 weeks prior to the end of the agreed subscription period. Early termination of the contract prior to the end of the subscription period is not possible.
- The subscription is automatically extended after the end of the previously ordered subscription period, if the client has not given notice of cancellation in due time. In the case of explicitly determinable subscriptions the contract ends automatically on the date previously agreed, unless other terms and conditions were agreed on when the contract was made.
- The processing of changes in subscription details, payment preferences, credit card information and delivery address in due time is only guaranteed, if notice of changes is given to Netcoo Publishing International Limited at least 10 days in advance. Netcoo Publishing International Limited is to be notified immediately of any changes of address.
- Delivery is free to the door. Netcoo Publishing International Limited will only be liable for delays, failure to deliver and damages to the product, if these were directly caused by negligent conduct on the side of Netcoo Publishing International Limited.
- All data saved for the administration of subscriptions will be treated according to data protection law.
- The registered office of Netcoo Publishing International Limited Branch Office Germany is Warendorf.
